South Road Contract For Graveling Let

At the meeting of the Municipal Council on Tuesday of last week, the contract for graveling the seven miles of road south of town which is to be built on an arrangement of cost between the farmers and the Council, was let to Christensen Bros. and work is expected to start at once.

The Municipal grading outfit has been on this road for some weeks past raising low places in it and smoothing out the grade a little. This gave Christensen Bros. time to get their power shovel here from Winnipeg and it is expected that as this goes to press or at the latest by the first of the coming week, gravel will be put on the road.

This is a much used gravel high way, and the graveling of these seven miles will be a big boon to the farmers in that district, and will it is hoped be but the beginning of more graveling later.

NEWS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Part of Cardston were layed out visitors on Wednesday for the funeral services of ex Pres. Heber S. Allen.

Don't forget the 2nd Ward Supper Entertainment and Dance TONIGHT at the 2nd Ward Hall. There'll be a big time for the entire family so let the kids join in the fun too.

Aziel Stevenson reported Wednesday that he threshed a 12 acre patch of oats which yielded 80 bushels per acre, getting 960 bushels off the field.

C. E. Alfred left on Wednesday's bus for Salt Lake City where he has a sister who is very ill. He expects to remain in Utah until after the October Conference.

A wedding reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. Thurston Smith, who were married last Wednesday, was held in the 2nd Ward Church Saturday evening. A lovely supper was served followed by a short but very interesting program. A most enjoyable evening is reported.

Alec Ogston, Secretary of the Interior Mutual Benefit Association of Vancouver, B.C., was in town for a couple of hours Wednesday. He will be back soon and is desirous of meeting all local people insured or who were insured in this Association. Watch your mail for an announcement.

J. Walter Low, for nineteen years principal of Cardston's schools and for a number of years Police Magistrate in this district, passed away in Glendale, Cal., early this week and was buried there on Thursday. He was Bishop of that ward when he passed away. Hon. Selon E. Low is a brother.

Heber S. Allen Passes Away

Allen family.

Along with the mercantile business he and Eph. Barker founded the Cardston Roller Mills on St. Mary's river, operated by water power, and after two floods had damaged the mill considerably it was moved to Cardston, operated by steam, and taken in as part of the Ellison Milling Co. and the deceased became a large stock holder in this enterprise. He was also a very successful farmer in his farm between here and Welling was a model of good farming methods and also good stock where horses were the power producers of the farm.

In a church capacity he had served in the Stake Presidency in the V. B. Stake and was President in 1903 when asked to come to Raymond and be President of the new Taylor Stake. He served continuously as Stake President here until 1936 when T. Geo. Wood succeeded him. When he was released he was the oldest Stake President in the Church in point of service.

Pages could be written of his work as a builder in Southern Alberta. He had served on the Council and School Board both here and in Cardston. For years he was president of the Knight Academy here and in all these positions he showed exceptional executive ability and rare judgment as he did in his own private affairs.

He leaves his wife and a large family to mourn his passing and to them we extend our deepest sympathy in their hour of bereavement.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Funeral services over the remains of Pres. H. S. Allen were held in the Taylor Stake House Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. The large auditorium was filled to capacity, there being between seven and eight hundred people present, coming from all over Southern Alberta, to show their respect to this pioneer builder and business man. The floral tributes covered the rostrum and the lovely pearl grey casket and were a silent tribute to the respect in which he was held by all who knew him.

Bishop J. Orvin Hicken was in charge of the services and the Choir was conducted by Ira McBride. The opening song was "I Need Thee Every Hour" followed by prayer by Pres. Edw. J. Wood of the Alberta Temple, and the second hymn was "I Know that My Redeemer Lives."

Elder O. H. Snow, a counselor of Pres. Allen for many years in the Taylor Stake Presidency was the first speaker. He paid tribute to the sterling character of deceased and said that he knew beyond any doubt that his Redeemer lived as the hymn said. Pres. Allen a man very diligent in his office in the church, and his responsibilities here, came first, even before his personal affairs. Deceased was a successful man in business due to thrift, sound principles and exceptional judgment. When the Knight Academy was created here, and during its operation, Pres. Allen was very much interested in it and personally negotiated a bank loan, which lasted many years, deceased paying the interest on same in order to keep the institution operating. As a President he was a good leader, giving good sound advice to the people, and setting an example by which all might well profit.

"I'm a Pilgrim" a vocal solo was sung by Reece Gibb.

Elder J. Wm. Evans, who had been associated with deceased in church capacities for forty-one years as the next speaker. The very large

NEWS NOTES

Christensen Bros. had their power shovel at King Motors on Wednesday getting it tuned up a little.

Mrs. C. Ashdown of Vancouver, B. C., a sister of Mrs. Fred Gardener has been a visitor at the Gardener home for the past week.

Speakers at the 2nd Ward Church last Sunday evening were Pres. A. E. Palmer of the Lethbridge Stake, and his married daughter who is visiting her parents at the present time. Her husband is in the service and stationed in Georgia where she has been laboring as a short term missionary.

Frank R. Taylor and Co. sang the quartet "Crossing the Bar." Stake Pres. T. Geo. Wood felt that all had been said in tribute of deceased and well deserved and still did not tell all the virtues of a great man. The congregation of different nationalities and different faiths all present to pay their respects to his life was a great tribute. We are here to learn and to prepare for our own death with the Gods and this doctrine had been fully understood by deceased who had lived his life in conformity with his understanding of this doctrine of the Church.

Bishop Hicken in a few closing remarks paid tribute to deceased and on behalf of the family thanked all for their kindness and assistance in the hour of sorrow.

The Choir sang "We Lay Thee Softly Down to Sleep" and Pres. A. E. Palmer of the Lethbridge Stake pronounced the benediction.

A very large cortege followed to the cemetery where burial was made. Christensen Bros. being in charge.

Beet digging got under way the middle of the week and the first load over the scales at the Factory sheds was brought in from the Walter Zobel farm and were very fine beets, this load being delivered Thursday morning. There were beets delivered to some of the dumps on the Lethbridge Northern on Wednesday.

Both factories here and at Picuris Butte expect to commence slicing beets Monday morning, when it is expected that sufficient beets will be in the sheds to ensure a continuous supply into the making of sugar is started.

Reports indicate that the beet harvest will be up to preliminary estimates and that between 325,000 and 350,000 tons of beets will be harvested this season. This will put the campaign well into January before the last of the beets are cut.

Our need's would really fill a lot—Most anywhere I chance to look there's something showing wear and tear and often, too, beyond repair. Take paint now! Get it while you can! Our need for paint is past all doubt. And I'm just itching to see the building of a brand-new fence. My old, too has the odd complaint. She says 'would appreciate a rat in the way for kettles one by one. In one-horse-day style, just go dots. And the linoleum she says, with truth, has all seen better days. But still we neither one deny that war bonds are the thing to buy. For, after all, we only lend the price of them, and we can spend our money with an easy mind when these sad time lie far behind.

CONTENTS OF NAVY LEAGUE TREASURE CHEST ARE DISPLAYED

FEEDING A HUNGRY WORLD

The meeting of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Association in Montreal this week, brings to mind a great many questions regarding post war conditions. What will be needed? Will the supply of raw materials in the way of food be sufficient? Will there be doctors from our neighbors cross the waters to care for the tens of thousands that will need medical attention? How soon will attention to many of these things be needed? And so an ad libitum.

It seems that the capturing of Nazi held Europe will be only the beginning of a tremendous job that only free people in lands that have been unmolested by war will be able to undertake. England will be occupied with her own problems for a number of years. Nations that have been ravaged by bombs and fighting see their towns and cities masses of rubble, their communication systems disrupted, their fields pocked and piled with the traffic of armies and war machines and their livestock including cows, chickens, pigs, horses, etc., practically extinct after the many years of war.

Surely it will take more than a few thousand car loads of wheat and a few thousand carcasses of beef to answer the demand for assistance facilities, and will there be doctors from our neighbors cross the waters to care for the tens of thousands that will need medical attention?

occupation that will have to be fed that will have to have replacements, and a navy to be maintained also an air force. True it is, that when Germany capitulates and war in Europe ends, many thousands of men and women will be demobilized and will come home to aid in the work at home. In view, however, of the increased need for specialized services on the home front and in factories and to rehabilitate war torn Europe will there be the surplus of labor that many of us fear. When the tanks are lifted on the manufacturing of cars, refrigerators, washers, electric appliances, new lines of all kinds of merchandise, when Mr. and Mrs. Canada commence spending their War Savings Certificates and their War Bonds, will not the demand on the home front employ a larger army of additional men and women besides those now engaged in war work. And how many thousands will want to relax and catch a second breath after the strenuous months and years of war work.

All on top of all this, we will of necessity assist a worn out, war weary and undernourished populace of Europe back to some measure of health, wealth and happiness as part of our Christian belief in the Golden Rule. What will the task amount to? We leave that for statisticians to answer, but in our opinion it will be a bigger job than the imagination can grasp, and it will take a long time, for only those who have been there can begin to appreciate the destruction and desolation that has been caused by the long, long years of war. As Thanksgiving approaches, we can be truly thankful for what we have received. We should also hope for the strength to meet the demands of peace time reconstruction as we have met the demand for wartime construction. A big job lies

FEEDING THE LAYING PULLETS

(Experimental Farms News)

No factor is more important than feeding poultry if the maximum egg production at the lowest cost is to be achieved. During the war period the highest possible production of eggs was the first essential. It is not unlikely that in the post war period maximum production at the lowest cost will be more appropriate. Well balanced feeds which will be utilized by the bird with the greatest efficiency will, in a large measure, contribute to a realization of this purpose, says H. S. Gutteridge, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

As by far the greatest proportion of Canadian eggs come from farm flocks, and doubtless will continue to do so, the use of home grown feed materials is the first step in economy of production. However, economy of production & efficiency of production are not necessarily the same and dependence upon home grown materials to an overwhelming extent may handicap efficiency for the sake of economy. For example, vitamin D is essential for growth of bone, productin of eggs and hatchability. During the winter months no source of this vitamin is available excepting through the purchase of the vitamin as found in fish oils or irradiated sterols. Similarly no adequate source of some of the essential B vitamins is available excepting where skim-milk or buttermilk in quantity or the finest quality dried green feeds are to be obtained. As high production cannot be obtained except through the use of a complete ration the farmer should be forewarned of being a "penny wise and a pound foolish" with respect to feeding. On the other hand both proteins and vitamins, the most costly ingredients of poultry rations have, without question, been used in wasteful excess in the past.

Two principal alternatives are open to the farmer. He may take an inventory of the quality feeds which has available on the farm and with the help, if necessary of nutritionists at Experimental Stations or Colleges, determine what ingredients must be purchased and how they should be used. In this case, he must take into consideration availability of these ingredients at country points as well as the added cost of purchasing in small quantities. Where little besides grains is available on the farm the purchase of a laying supplement or concentrate is the better of the two alternatives assuring the presence of the essentials which are costly and hard to obtain in the country. Such a supplement is diluted down with a large proportion of home grown grains and makes a complete and inexpensive ration.

Joan: "Well, Henry isn't a very good swimmer, you know."

The lovely quilt which was raffled by the Friday night Literary Club on Tuesday night of this week was won by Mrs. F. W. Gardener.

L. S. Turcott, Liberal standard bearer for the expected Dominion election was a visitor in town on Tuesday afternoon. Wm. Harris accompanied him from Lethbridge.

ALBERTA PROVIDES VITAMIN C IN ABUNDANCE

Vitamin C is necessary for healthy gums, teeth and blood vessels. Insufficient amount of this vitamin for a long period causes scurvy, and for a shorter time results in bleeding gums, easy bruising, small bleeding points in the skin and excessive fatigue.

Although citrus fruits and canned tomatoes on which we usually rely for our Vitamin C in the winter are excellent sources, the cost is rather high particularly when the daily requirements of a large family have to be considered. A much more economical source of Vitamin C is the red berry of the rose bush which can be had free for the picking. Now is the time to gather the rose hips to make into jams, jellies, catsup, etc., for winter use.

Until recently, the chief difficulty in using rose hips has been to get rid of the seeds and hairs. This has now been overcome by simply putting the hips through a feed chopper, using a knife large enough to allow the seeds to go through uncut. The uncut hips may then be mixed with the juice of fruits such as cranapple in a 1:1 proportion. Other fruits such as chokecherry, grape, red currant, wild plum, cranberry, etc., may also be used out with these fruits. The proportions should be one part rose hips to two parts fruit juice. Heat the mixture just to boiling point, stirring to prevent burning. In small amounts press through a strainer with a mesh just small enough to hold back the seeds, which are then discarded. The resulting puree or jelly may now be strained through cheesecloth to remove remaining hairs and small seeds. Use 3-4 cup sugar or honey for each cup of puree, and boil as you would for jelly. With fruits low in pectin, better jelly results if pectin is added, at the rate of about 1-2 package of dry pectin to a batch of juice. Two teaspoons of this jelly will supply the daily Vitamin C requirements of adult or child for one day.

A circular "Wild Rose Hips for Vitamin C" has been prepared by Mrs. V. R. Macdonald, Supervisor of the Home Economics Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. This circular, in addition to giving suggestions on gathering rose hips and offering information on Vitamin C requirements in general, supplies many excellent recipes for both fresh and dried hips. A copy may be obtained on request from the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

COLD IN ALASKA

(Leonard Lyons in New York Post)

Capt. Richard Neuberger, the Dron 1 glider-newsman, just returned from 20 months in the northern section of Alaska. He arrived there in the winter months and immediately asked: "How cold does it really get?" "When your shivering let-on freezes, then it's 30 below," he was told. "With the antiseptic solution freezes, it's 50 below. When Scotch freezes, it's 65 below. And when the anti-freeze mixture for trucks and bulldozers freezes, then you'll know it's 70 below." At what point does gasoline freeze? Capt. Neuberger asked. "At 91," he was told. "But don't worry about that, because you freeze at 71."

Empty Granaries

For the first time in two years many farmers have emptied their granaries. Now is the time to repair and clean them in order to prevent damage to stored grain by moisture and insects.

Many granaries will have developed roof leaks and cracks in walls and floors. Such places must be repaired if moisture is to be prevented from reaching the new grain. Grain insects frequently remain in empty bins and must be removed by thorough cleaning if damage is to be avoided.

The following measures are suggested:

1. Repair places where rain or snow could enter. A lining of moisture-proof paper may be necessary.
2. Concrete floors often cause trouble; a covering of reinforced moisture-proof paper should be laid down.
3. Clean granaries thoroughly. Brush down walls and sweep floors with damp sawdust. Then sprinkle kerosene kist over the floor and sweep it clean to fill all cracks.
4. If granary was infested with mice or insects last year, whitewash walls and floor a week before filling so that whitewash will dry thoroughly.
5. Fill granary to the planks only, and provide for ventilation over the surface of the grain.
6. Grain "Live" (tough) should be stored in smallest bins and turned in cold weather.
7. Locate open bins or piles on well-drained ground with two or three feet of straw under the grain. Pile grain into an even row and cover with a tarpaulin or sheaves; remove can before warm weather arrives in spring.
8. Consult a local elevator agent or the Grain Research Laboratory, Winnipeg, will regard to problems of farm storage.
